Kristine,

Sounds good, presentations to the TCT is something that we have done in past, and we will certainly continue to do so as appropriate. I look forward to working more closely with you.

Matt

Thanks Matt.

Also, I forgot to mention yesterday that all comments on DEQ source control actions will come from EPA through me. I may have others at EPA review the documents, but I will screen the comments to forward to DEQ. I know in the past DEQ has been given comments from different staff in varying degrees. I hope that this process will streamline our review and alleviate some of the confusion that occurred with past projects. It might be helpful for DEQ staff to give a short presentation on the source control decision (like what was done at the TCT for Calbag), however, EPA might want to follow up with another discussion with DEQ that allows us to ask questions about the project that can be answered by DEQ staff. I'm hoping that this will reduce the amount of comments EPA provides DEQ on a project and allow EPA (at least me) an opportunity to understand the site and the source control decisions for that site. Hope that is satisfactory for you. Let me know your thoughts.

Kristine,

Attached is the last version of a source control tracking spreadsheet for DEQ upland sites. As we mentioned today, we expect to update this and probably add some additional information columns.
